

GOVERNANCE OF DIGITAL MEDIA AND PLATFORMS

Regulation and the public interest

EuromediApp Dissemination Conference

Conference speakers

Josef Trappel (University of Salzburg)

Josef Trappel is Professor for media policy and media economics and Head of the Department of Communication Studies at the University of Salzburg, Austria. Coordinator of the Erasmus Jean Monnet project EuromediApp and General Coordinator of the Euromedia Research Group.

Helena Sousa (University of Minho)

Helena Sousa is Professor of Communication Sciences at the University of Minho and President of the Social Sciences School Council. Editor of the European Journal of Communication; member of the IAMCR International Council and Member of the Independent General Board of the Portuguese Public Service Broadcaster RTP.

Madalena Oliveira (University of Minho)

Madalena Oliveira is Director of the Communication and Society Research Centre (CECS) of the University of Minho, President of the Portuguese Association of Communication Sciences (SOPCOM). Associate Professor in Communication Sciences at the University of Minho.

Isabella de Vivo (La Sapienza University of Rome)

Isabella de Vivo, lawyer with special interest in information technology law, has graduated with a second master's degree in Literature and Philosophy from 'La Sapienza' University of Rome, where she is currently a PHD student, at the Doctoral School in Mediatrends. Main research interests involve Internet governance, information media law and democracy.

João C. Magalhães (University of Groningen)

João C. Magalhães is Assistant Professor in Media, Politics and Democracy at the Centre for Media and Journalism Studies, University of Groningen. Former researcher at the London School of Economics and Political Science, and at the Alexander von Humboldt Institute for Internet and Society, Berlin.

Tales Tomaz (University of Salzburg)

Senior Researcher at the Department of Communication Studies at the University of Salzburg. His research interests are in political economy of the digital media. Co-Coordinator of the Erasmus Jean Monnet project EuromediApp (European Media and Platform Policy).

Mariana Lameiras (University of Minho)

Researcher at the Communication and Society Research Centre (CECS), University of Minho with focus on issues within the scope of communication policies, media regulation, digital governance and e-participation for critical and active citizenship. Researcher in the project "Euromedia Ownership Monitor – EurOMo" and former researcher at the United Nations University Operating Unit on Policy-Driven Electronic Governance (UNU-EGOV).

Hannu Nieminen (University of Helsinki)

Emeritus Professor of media and communications policy at the University of Helsinki, Finland. Former Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences and represented the five social sciences and humanities faculties in the Management Group of the University of Helsinki. Research interests include media and democracy, theories of public sphere, and communication policy and regulation.

Claudia Padovani (University of Padua)

Researcher and Senior Lecturer in Political Science and International Relations at the Department of Politics, Law and International Studies (DSPGI) of the University of Padua, Italy. Coordinator of courses in International Communication, Gender Equality in Media and ICTs.

Victor Pickard (Annenberg School for Communication)

Professor of Media Policy and Political Economy at the Annenberg School for Communication. Previously taught at NYU and the University of Virginia and has held visiting appointments at Cornell, Goldsmiths, and LSE. Worked on media policy in Washington, D.C. as a Senior Research Fellow at the media reform organization Free Press and the think tank New America.

Luís António Santos (University of Minho)

Luís António Santos is Vice-Director of the Communication and Society Research Centre (CECS), University of Minho. Former Journalist, with experiences in Portuguese national newspapers, radio, TV and the BBC World Service. Research interests focus on journalism production and its broader framing in a political economy perspective, media regulation, press subsidies, media conglomerates.

Leen d'Haenens (University of KU Leuven)

Leen d'Haenens is Professor at the Institute for Media Studies (IMS), University of Leuven (KU Leuven), where she teaches 'Analysis of Media Texts' and 'European Media Policy' at BA level, and 'Media Consumption and Identity' at MA level. She holds a PhD in Political and Social Sciences, University of Ghent. She is a full member of the Euromedia Research Group.

Tarlach McGonagle (University of Amsterdam)

Tarlach McGonagle is Senior Researcher and Lecturer at the Institute for Information Law (IViR), Faculty of Law, University of Amsterdam and at the School of Human Rights Research in the Netherlands. He regularly writes expert reports on freedom of expression, media law and policy and journalism for various branches of the Council of Europe, OSCE, other IGOs and NGOs.

Maria Michalis (University of Westminster)

Maria Michalis is Professor in Communication Policy at the University of Westminster's Communication and Media Research Institute (CAMRI). Background in political science and international relations and PhD in Communication Policy. Former Secretary-General of the IAMCR.

Giuseppe Acconcia (University of Padua)

Giuseppe Acconcia is Lecturer at the University of Padua, Geopolitics of the Middle East (2019-2022) and Post-Doctoral researcher of the project "Polbis - The Politics and Policy of Basic Income Schemes: lessons from Italian and European cases". PhD in Politics by the Goldsmiths, University of London. Previous research experience includes work on media and social movements in the Middle East, intercultural experiences in young generations and climate change.

Hanne Vandenberghe (University of KU Leuven)

Hanne Vandenberghe is Senior researcher and lecturer at the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Leuven and the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences at the Ghent University. Her main research interests are media policy, the relationship between news and democracy and the representation of diversity issues in the news.

Elsa Costa e Silva (University of Minho)

Elsa Costa e Silva is Assistant Professor and Researcher of the Communication and Society Research Centre (CSRC) of the University of Minho in the field of Political Economy of Communication, Media Policy and Media Economics. Research interests are media regulation, media ownership and the democratic role of journalism. Former Journalist of the daily newspaper Jornal de Notícias.

Dora Mota (University of Minho)

Dora Mota is a former journalist of the daily newspaper Jornal de Notícias. PhD student in Communication Sciences at the University of Minho on local journalism and news deserts. Actively involved in the EuromediApp's Winter School Manifesto on the "Quality of European News Ecology".

Stefan Gadringer (University of Salzburg)

Stefan Gadringer is Senior Lecturer, research associate and Ph.D. fellow in the Department of Communication Studies at the University of Salzburg. Research areas include national and international communication policy, media and democracy, Internet governance and characteristics of new information and communication technologies and their implications for society.

Inês Mendes (University of Minho)

Inês Mendes is PhD student in Communication Sciences at the University of Minho, Portugal, and a Researcher in Media and Journalism at CECS. Currently focused on slow journalism, her interests lie mainly on how journalism interacts with time within a fast-paced society. Actively involved in the EuromediApp's Winter School Manifesto on the "Quality of European News Ecology".

Antonio Alaia (University of Padua)

Master's degree in European and Global Studies - Global Communication Policy at University of Padova. Trade Unionist - Sindacalista presso Cgil Veneto. Media Activist.

João Pedro Figueiredo (ERC – Portuguese Media Regulatory Entity)

João Pedro Figueiredo holds a law degree from the University of Coimbra. Member of the Portuguese Media Regulatory Body (ERC) Council, after being elected by Elected by the Assembly of the Republic. Former member of the Public Service broadcaster legal team and adviser to the Independent General Board.

Paulo Ferreira (University of Minho)

Paulo Ferreira is Journalist, currently working at Jornal de Notícias. Held several editing and directing positions in some of the main Portuguese newspapers. PhD student in Communication Sciences at the University of Minho. Studies the effect of social inequalities on access to media and ICTs from a Political Economy perspective.

Joaquim Fidalgo (University of Minho)

Joaquim Fidalgo holds a PhD in Communication Sciences (Journalism), University of Minho. Former Journalist with multiple directing responsibilities in the most relevant national newspapers. Researcher of the Communication and Society Research Centre. Main research interests are Journalists' Professional Identity, Journalism Ethics, New Media and Media Regulation.